

To Market, To Market

TO SEP 27 The hottest place to be on a Friday evening isn't an underground nightclub—it's the Shipyards Night Market (page 36). This lively spot on the North Shore buzzes with activities for the whole family. Local bands perform, encouraging spectators to shimmy and shake. More than 30 food trucks feed the hungry hordes, while a 19+ beer garden guarantees plenty of top tipples from BC breweries and wineries, to wash down all those mouthwatering meals. An artisan marketplace has a wealth of local products to discover, from jewellery to baked goods. And the best part? No secret handshake (or cover charge) required.

Stand-Up Guy

JUN 14-15 Did you hear the one about the South African comedian who was so popular that his Vancouver show sold out instantly? The organizers had to add three more shows. It's no joke—but if it's jokes you're looking for, head to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre to see Trevor Noah's (page 67) stand-up act. The host of The Daily Show likes to riff on everything from Vancouver housing prices to the current inhabitant of the White House.

Paddles Up!

JUN 21-23 It's the longest day of the year—and it also happens to be the start of the Concord Pacific Dragon Boat Festival (page 66). On Jun. 21, the fest kicks off with a concert and a series of heart-pounding races through the waters of False Creek. The fun continues all weekend long with more races and concerts alongside cultural installations, food trucks and artisans' booths. Ready, set, summer.
