These great products will help you look (and feel) your best.

Want to take a taste of Canada home with you? Eos's newest limited-edition organic lip balm features the quintessential Canadian flavour: maple. At Shoppers (page 90).

Hyaluronic Acid Micro Infusion Patches from NeoStrata are the easiest way to smooth and plump crow's feet, forehead creases and laugh lines. Consider them a mini-facelift in a travel-friendly package. At Shoppers (page 90).

Seeking smoother skin? The Satinelle Prestige Wet and Dry Epilator by Philips can be used on the legs, body and face, on either wet or dry skin. It's the perfect travel companion. At Shoppers (page 90).

Gwyneth Paltrow and Goop (her juggernaut of a wellness website) are already fans of Sangre de Fruta. The brand uses locally sourced, organic ingredients in its body creams, hand soaps and hair products, all of which are made by hand on nearby Bowen Island. At Litchfield (page 84).

If you love dramatic eye makeup but don't love seeing it smeared on bathroom towels later, then this is the makeup remover for you. Bi-Falls from Valmont is tough on waterproof mascara but gentle on skin. At La Maison Valmont (page 89).

Nourish dry hair and skin—and help empower African women at the same time—with the shea butter line of products from The Body Shop (page 89). The company sources shea butter from a women's association in northern Ghana, paying more than fair-trade prices in order to help fund community projects such as health centres and schools.
