

Postcards from the Edge

A tale of the city, told in a trio of notes By Sheri Radford

April 2, 2007

Dearest Martin,
I can't believe my company sent me here. It's rained every minute since I arrived! Spring showers indeed.
These next four soggy weeks are going to drag by.
Everywhere I turn I see healthy-looking people jogging on the seawall or doing yoga on the beach—in the rain! Where are the couch potatoes? Doesn't it ever snow in April here, like in a normal Canadian city?
I miss you, and I'm counting the minutes until I return to you and my beloved Toronto.

All my love, Suzanne

Martin Reader
111 Queen Street East
Toronto, Ontario
Canada M5C 1S2

PHOTO BY ANDY MONS

Wet Coast

STAMPS © CANADA POST CORPORATION, 2007. REPRODUCED WITH PERMISSION

Lotus Land

April 16, 2007

Hi Martin,
There's some gorgeous scenery in Vancouver. I adore walking along the seawall just before dusk. Did you know the Olympics are coming here in 2010? I'm heading to Whistler on the weekend to check out the end of the ski season. Apparently it's possible to ski, golf and sail, all on the same day here. Have to go—there's so much to see and do and I'm only here for two more weeks.

Fondly, Suzanne

Martin Reader
111 Queen Street East
Toronto, Ontario
Canada M5C 1S2

PHOTO BY ANDY MONS

Whistler Wonderland

April 27, 2007

Martin,

I just wanted to let you know I've met a cute snowboarder named Chad and he's asked me to move in. He's also an actor—he even had a speaking part in Battlestar Galactica! It's so cool that it's filmed here. We're going to share Chad's 350-square-foot condo (it has an amazing view of the mountains), and he's lined up a job for me at his sister's doggie daycare. It'll give me the free time I need to get my chi aligned. Please send me my belongings when you get a chance. But don't bother with the parkas—I won't need them here. Hope you've dug yourself out from the latest snowstorm.

Sincerely,
Suzanne

Martin Reader

111 Queen Street East

Toronto, Ontario

Canada M5C 1S2

PHOTO BY TOSHI KAWANO
INSIGHT-PHOTOGRAPHY.COM
COURTESY TOURISM WHISTLER