

Cool Comfort

Let's face it: pants that zip off into shorts don't look good on anyone. They may be practical for travel, but they're a definite fashion "don't." Fortunately, Dish and Duer (page 36) has a better solution. The Vancouver company recently launched its new Live Lite collection. Made from lightweight, breathable, antimicrobial fabric, the stylish but practical pants feature hidden vents and moisture-wicking pockets. Who knew travel clothing could look so good?

Golden Touch

When all the other luggage is boring black, let yours stand out on the crowded carousel. The suitcases, purses and tote bags at the new Lipault Paris store (page 43) come in memorable shades such as Pink Gold (pictured), Riviera Blue, Almond Green, Purple, Ruby and Duck Blue. The popular brand's first North American standalone boutique is located at McArthurGlen (page 28), a mecca for savvy shoppers that's just a quick SkyTrain ride from downtown.

Bigger & Better

What's better than a Tiffany & Co. (page 40) store? One that's three times larger than before. The flagship at the corner of Burrard Street and Alberni recently underwent months of renovations. The dazzling result—907 sq m (9,762 sq ft) of space spread over two floors—displays pieces by Paloma Picasso and Elsa Peretti alongside engagement rings, watches and the Tiffany HardWear gold collection. Because when it comes to jewellery, size matters.
